WORK PROCESS

Requirement Gathering

Our first task is to gather formal requirements from our clients and understand their viewpoints.

Requirement Discussion

Discuss every item in the requirement list to learn more about the client's expectations.

Wireframes

Wireframes represent a 2D preview of a plan and are one of the most critical steps.

Design

Strategizing the elements to be incorporated into the website interface is our next step.

Development

Whether it's native apps or a website, we handle various development phases in a single shot.

Testing

Functional, unit, performance, and load testing are the main tasks our professionals do.

Deployment

Deployment in the dedicated server is done post-testing and debugging in the ready phase for users.

Maintenance

Post-deployment, we offer maintenance services when the website is in the production phase for the project.

WATERFALL PROCESS

02 Requirement

Understanding client requirements is essential to function appropriately.

04 Development

Post interface building, the initial development phase starts.

06 Maintenance

After deployment, maintaining the website, any debugging is

01 Analysis

We analyze the project requirement and market

03 Design

Our design team starts working on the interface then.

05 Testing

On completion of development, end-to-end testing is done.

AGILE & SCRUM

Quick Start

We can start your project as soon as possible using Agile Scrum.

We ask you everything.

We build a preview.

We present the final process.

Break the project into phases

Each phase act as a roadmap

Regular checkpoint meetings

Roadmap Visibility

We work with you on maintaining a list of items/features needed to accomplish.

Scope Flexibility

This method helps us handle scope changes from the start to the end of the project.

Early Results Delivery

Feedback is vital in this process as it determines the next few steps.

Adjust resources and tools timely

Mitigate risks in project delivery

Manage/change checkpoint hours

Faster Time to Market

Our process is geared towards developing a minimum viable product (MVP).

Work through feedback communication

Greasing the glitching parts before launch

Final testings before & after launch

Schedule regular demo meetings

Showcase what's done and what's left

Transparency through each execution

Elaboration

Present an operational architecture controlling the top risks that fulfill the non-functional requirements.

Construction

Fill the architecture with production-ready code produced from analysis, design, implementation, and testing.

Inception

Identifying project scope, requirements, and risks at a high level to estimate work.

Transition

Delivering the system ready into the production operating environment as envisioned.

Incremental and Iterative

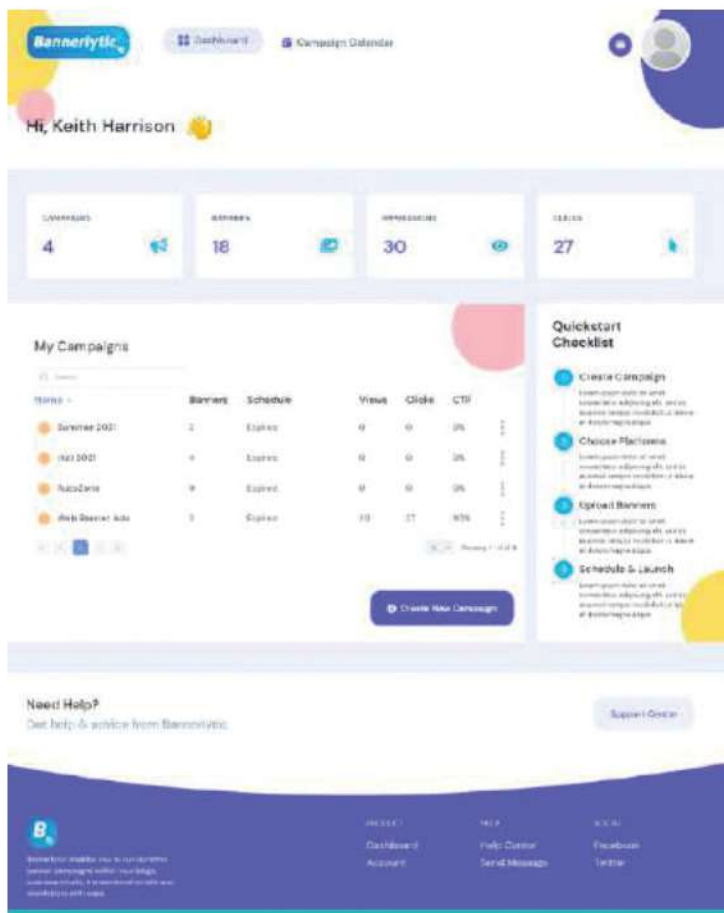

CASE STUDY

BannerLytic

BanerLytic is an E-Commerce project where Clisann Limited created the website to ensure that the client can communicate with users over digital platforms. The platform has been built from scratch, and the results yielded were outstanding and marvelous. From arranging campaigns to dealing with subscriptions and payment gateways, experts at Clisann systematically did everything.

BannerLytic Brief

We designed advertising banners, campaigns, and promotional strategies first. Then, we gathered all requirements from our clients to understand their business well and prepare plans accordingly. With our wireframe and strategic decisions, this company now has more revenues and a higher conversion ratio. Users have increased in number, and the SERPs have been improved due to appropriate exposure to the audience. We also handled subscriptions, payments, and marketing events for awareness.

Services Provided

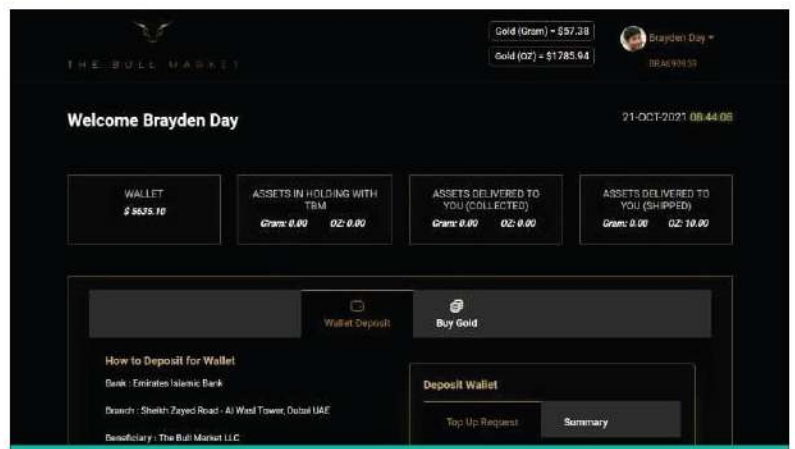

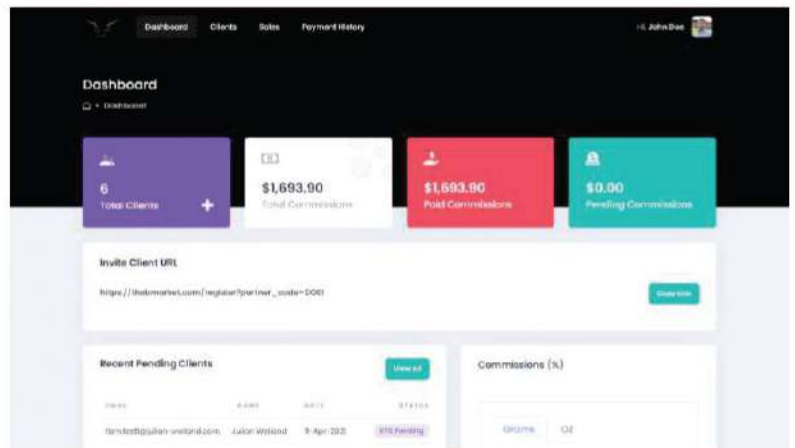

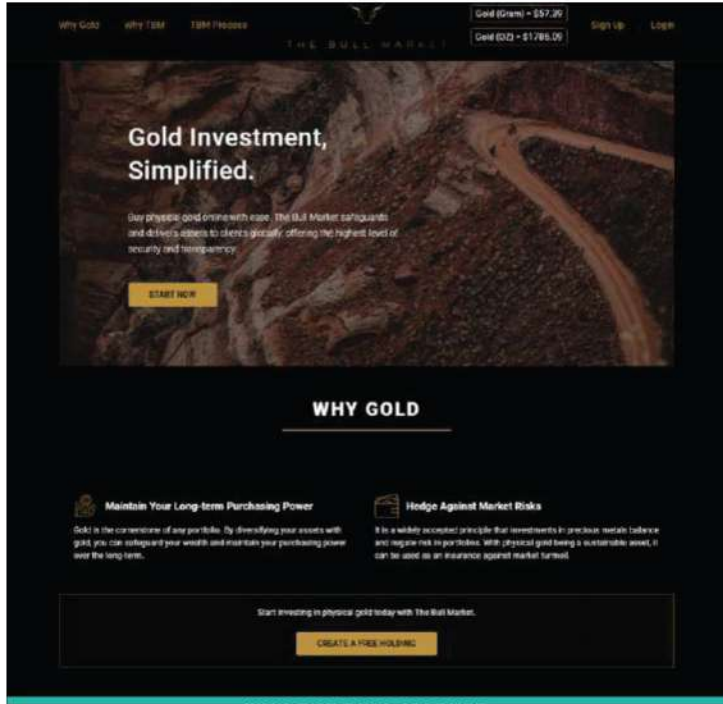

- Design Prototype
- Backend Development
- Front end Development
- QA & Software Testing

Key Benefits

- The company saw an increase in orders and sales for consecutive words. Revenues increased, and we informed the conversion ratio.
- Our analyzing experts made reports and charts after studying the collected data. It helped us to debug and upgrade the website.
- We provided backup post-deployment till the website was stable and performed exceptionally well.

CASE STUDY

The Bull Market

Bull Market Brief

Another project that we dealt with was that of Bull Market. At the front end, we added sections for showing live gold prices, wallets, and a dashboard. Under the dashboard, we added three options- assets in holding, assets collected to users, and assets delivered.

We developed the admin part with APIs and plug-ins for fast performance and a high level of efficiency. Our expert professionals dealt with several business operations and flow from order management to planning shipping and deliveries. The Clisann team did everything per business requirements. We also did proper testing for debugging and quality assurance.
